VOL. 14, NUMBER 107 MONESSEN, PA, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16 1915 SIX CENTS THE WEEK

The fall season is here. This country has arranged to loan $500,000,000 to Great Britain and France. Are you still croaking hard times? Maybe a little judgment and business push would help you.

Aged Travelers Stop Off Here On Tour Of Country

Two aged travelers, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Daileys of Blydale county, Kentucky, spent the nigh tin Monessen and left early this morning to continue their travels, their objective point being Youngstown, O. They created quite a little bit of excitement as they stepped from the P. & L. E. train last evening. Mr. Cornelius is 72 years of age and his wife a year his senior.

They are traveling on foot over the country and have a full camping outfitwhich they carry on their backs. The aged man carries a bundle weighing about 60 pounds, in which he keeps blankets, extra clothes and a small oil stove. His wife carries two baskets filled with kettles, buckets and edibles.

Three weeks ago they became infected with the wanderlust and leaving their small cabin in the backwoods of Kentucy, set forth for Cumberland. At that time they owned a horse, but the old animal was unable to keep up the pace and dropped dead while they were in the mountains of Virginia. They then decided to continue their travels afoot and finally reached Brownsville. They arrived here on the 5:10 train last evening and put up for the night at the police station. Leaving here early in the morning after the good wife had prepared breakfast, they started for Pittsburgh and expect to make their way to Youngstown, O., in a few days.

After a visit there, Mr. Cornelius stated that they would start back home as "The Old Woman," as he refererd to his wife, would not feel right if she did not die in her native state. The couple are haggard and brown from their travels and the woman is dressed in a gingham dress and sun bonnet. They seemed well pleased with their treatment here and were profuse with their thanks for the manner in which the local police took care of them.

Will Meet Tuesday

The Monongahela Valley Ministerial Association will meet in the Presbyterian church, Belle Vernon, on Tuesday. The association is composed of the pastors of all protestant churches between Fayette City and Monongahela to which has been added Bentleyville. The first session will convene at 10:30 a. m., when Rev. Albert H. Davies of Monessen, will deliver the address of the morning, to be followed by a business session. Dinner will be taken at Hotel Kyle. At 2:30 Rev. M. M. Allbeck of Monongahela, will read a paper to be followed by a period of open discussion. It is expected that a large number of ministers will be present.

First Hunting Accident

Frank B. Theakston, a prominent jeweler and lodgeman of Brownsville, received a gun shot wound in the calf of his leg while hunting in the mountains near Gleason early yesterday morning. Carl F. Moore, crack shot of Western Pennsylvania, was his companion on the hunting trip, and while climbing a fence, Moore's gun was accidentally discharged, Theakson receiving forty small shots in the calf of his leg. Aid was summoned and he was brought to his home about 10 o'clock the same morning by Robert J. West who had motored to the mountains for a hunt in the same vicinity.

A physician dressed the wounds which are not of a serious nature, and Mr. Theakston hopes to be about in a few days. Both men are well known in this vicinity and in company with Bracken Todd have visited with friends in this city recently.

Meet This Afternoon

The Monessen Child Welfare Circle will hold their regular meeting this afternoon in the Jefferson school building and have arranged a program that will be interesting to all mothers of this community. A large crowd will no doubt be in attendance, including a number of members of the Charleroi organization.

Miss Jeannette Kelly of Pittsburgh, who was employed as visiting nurse among the sick children of this community during the summer months, will address the meeting and tell of her experiences while attending to her duties here. Miss Clayton, of the Irene Kauffman Settlement school will also make an address and give demonstrations of the work to be accomplished by the organization of "Little Mothers Clubs."

Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Dale gave a birthday party in honor of their son Harry's 10th birthday anniversary on Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Mrs. Dale was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Mrs. Wm. Blume and niece, Miss Gladys Dale. About 30 little guests were present and many beautiful and useful presents were received. A dainty lunch was served which was enjoyed by all.

Those present were Victor Wilson, Ray, Ruth and Stella Elliott, Howard Higgins, Francis Hunter, Dorothy Johnson, Margaret Chambers, Ethel McGilvray, Ernest McCue, Versailes Smock, May Ashton, Margaret Mann, Anna Norsted, George and Mary Wilkes, Marie McCrerry, Lois and Genevieve Wheatley, Willis Leonard, Sara Harvey, Joe Wheatley, Francis Myford. Andy and Peter Kasida, Harry, Francis, Emma and Margaret Dale.

Local Jurors

The names of the 24 grand jurors, 200 petit jurors for the November term of criminal court and 250 additional to serve for the three weeks of civil court that follows have been drawn by Sheriff Ben Steele and Jury Commissioners Baldridge and Coleman.

The November term of Criminal court will open Monday, November 8, and continue for two weeks. Civil court will follow beginning November 22. It will be in session for three weeks. One hundred jurors have been drawn to serve for each week of criminal court, while 50 have been drawn to serve each of the three weeks of civil court.

The names of the local grand jurors were published yesterday, the others are as follows: Robert W. Beck, A. G. Dunlap, R. T. Dale, Dr. O. J Kreger, Ralph Bearer, M. E. Hirsch, A. W. Blackburn, Oscar Campbell, John Dunn, Joseph Jeffries, B. E. Brown M. C. Crumm, Eshelman Ashen, Fred Matson, E. D. Byerly, Donald Baker Thomas Dunlevy, E. J. Ewing, A. W. Ferren, Dory Hayden, Thomas Lowstutter and J. W. Manown.

Big Game Today

Jeannette foot ball enthusiasts are all worked up over the big game this afternoon with the local High school boys, and with Claire Poole, the star quarterback of last year's team in the lineup, are confident of victory. Following is what the Jeannette News of yesterday had to say in regard to the outlook:

"The amount of practice indulged in by the local high school warriors and the big doses of "fighting spirit" that has been administered by Coach H. B. Saul this last week, has caused a feeling of sorrow to arise for the Monessen boys when they go up against the "hosts of Saul" tomorrow.

"While it is admitted that Monessen is strong by some of the more pessimistic, too strong, yet one cannot help feeling confident of victory when Jeannette's 42 centimeter outer defenses loom up in Madden., H. Bricker. Leonard, Maxwell, Slonaker, C. Bricker and Gault, with Bush, McFarland and Shoots in reserve. This lineup is enough to inspire anyone with hope, especially if the backfield gets a little higher polish on their work. Besides all this, it is rumored that Claire Poole, last year's classy little quarter will be in the lineup tomorrow, and if this is the case, Soles will be back at end and Jeannette will develop into a formidable factor in western Pennsylvania High school football circles. The whole trouble this season has been with the backs in whose hands is left the making of points. The line is heavy and strong enough to cope with most of the neighboring schools if given a little encouragement in the way of scores.

Enthusiasm over the outlook is rife tnd Trainer Harry Meddeker is so worked up over the state of affairs that to ease his mind he has taken to the eloquence of poetical expression.

Behold!
Football, football and more plays too,
Made for J. H. S. and the same old crew.
Isn't it just dandy on a good front seat
With a bag of roasted peanuts; see Monessen get beat."

Republican Victory

Harry S. Miller of New Kensington, Republican nominee for Recorder of Deeds, was in town today. Mr. Miller was a candidate for the same office during two primary contests, both of which times he carried Monessen by a good vote and he is entitled to the full vote of his party.

Throughout the county Mr. Miller sees signs of a big Republican victory. While he expects to keep moving until the day of election, Mr. Miller is certain of victory.

Many of the nominees have visited the town since the primaries and all speak in practically the same terms. People generally are looking forward to the national election one year hence, when it is desired that the Republican policies in state and nation be restored, and in order to bring this about, it is time now to line up for the straight ticket.

The announcement in yesterday's Independent by Jesse J. B. Wall that he will do everything in his power to further the party of protection brings universal gratification among Republicans. Mr. Wall is a mill man, having worked before the fiery furnace many years. During the three months of panic Monessen underwent last fall and winter, Mr. Wall acquainted himself with the cause and effect and he fears any repetition of such a condition that may follow another Democratic victory.

With every candidate, every working man and every other man that has prosperity at heart, it should be the same universal desire, that of restoring the Republican party to power in city, county, state and nation.

Trained Dog Ill

There is a gloom in the camp of mushroom hunters as J. E. "Hump" McNeil, owner and trainer of the celebrated mushroom dog, announced this week that this noted animal had fallen a victim of typhoid fever. The dog was enjoying the best of health until hit by a speeding automobile early in the week, and that evening came home evidently suffering from internal injuries. "Hump" diagnosed the case as typhoid, as the animal would consume twelve gallons of water daily and had a temperature of 142. All week-end mushroom trips were necessarily postponed and the services of the dog will be missed for some time.

Big Orders Are Given To Mail Order Houses

Thirty eight mail bags arrived at the local post office this week from Sears and Roebuck. This in addition to the consignments received through the express and freight offices from the same firm and from other firms doing a mail order business. Then there are thousands of dollars worth of business scattered through other channels, most of which should be left at home.

This is the result of advertising. It is not the result of a customer visiting the store and seeing something attractive and buying it, but it comes about by getting hold of a catalogue and looking at what is believed to be an attractive price, then sending the cash for something the customer has never seen and cannot return if unsatisfactory.

But this condition is not one alone for the merchant to combat, but every person in town should lend a helping hand or our local institutions will perish. They can never be what they ought to be under such an appalling condition of affairs. It will take a town movement to stop this wholesale plundering of our payrolls.

Our business men ought to all advertise. Not one, two or three, but every man in the town who calls himself a merchant ought to be a live merchant or get out of the field. Some of them even knock their home papers instead of helping to build up a creditable press and at the same time build up a creditable business for themselves and the town. Others spend more than they really can afford and do less business than they would if every other merchant pulled for the town.

Some merchants send their wives to the city to buy what they can't get at cost from their neighbor in another line. Or if they do buy at home, they want a measly little ten per cent. off. Such methods are disgusting.

Then the mill heads ought to encourage living in Monessen and trading in Monessen and every man who has a job in a mill ought to be loyal to his town, the town where it is possible for him to earn a living for himself and family. He ought to help his neighbor to get a better job, and no merchant in Monessen has a walkover in the face of present conditions.

Now mill men and bankers, doctors and editors, preachers and laymen, merchants and private citizens, let us all meet on one common ground and discuss the situation, find out what the trouble is and then get a result that will stop the consignment of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise to our town from mail order houses and other out of town concerns when the same or better articles are laying on our local counters at prices that assure better value. If you pay cash in Monessen you will be surprised to find out how satisfactorily you can shop right here.

Retired into Seclusion

Frank Buchanan, member of the labor group in Congress, and erstwhile President of Labor's National Peace Council, has ceased his efforts in behalf of waring humanity and retired for the time into seclusion. The career of the organization he so lately headed was not a notable one, notwithstanding that its program was comprehensive and ambitious It proposed among other things to establish by fiat or otherwise peace on earth, and those who have followed Mr. Buchanan's utterances on the floor of Congress will not be surprised to learn that the first move of his organization was to direct public attention to the cupidity and sin of American manufacturers.

The production of ammunition in the United States for the beligerent nations of Europe particularly excited his ire, and an attempt was made to have Government officials hold all war cargoes in the ports of the United States Some unkind persons hinted that the activities of the Peace Council were inspired and financed by German funds for the purpose of hampering ammunition makers now able to ship their product only to the allies. Intimations of this kind were deeply resented by the Peace Council, and at one time they proposed to oust the Collector of the Port of New York for his neutral actions in allowing such cargoes to leave the port.

The climax of the activities of Mr. Buchanan and his irenic followers came when they attempted to secure the support of President Wilson. Having been refused an interview, Mr Buchanan addressed a letter to the President's Secretary which throws some light on the attitude of himself and fellow pacifists.

"Your intimation," he said in part, "that the President's time was so fully taken up with matters of pressing importance that he could not grant an audience to representatives of labor, that has made the United States of America the proud nation that it is, in order to permit them in person to demonstrate that the subsidized press, representing organized dollars in America, which is seeking to serve as the volunteer adviser of the President, was misrepresenting labor's attitude in the present crisis, is tantamount to a declaration that the President is more concerned about the desires of big business than he is to discover the heartfelt sentiment of the common people"

Having thus relieved his mind, Congressman Buchanan forthwith relieved the Peace Council of his services as it head. We regret that the American people can thus easily be rid of his services in Congress Important questions of international relations will be before the next Congress; the most delicate situation in which the United States has found itself in years will be considered. What a pity it is that men who believe organized business seeks to bring about wars should have voice in the councils of the nation at such a critical time. The business interests, particularly the manufacturng interests are the trump cards of diplomacy which the United States holds today in the affairs of the world.

NO TIME WASTED

Prompt Action is Pleasing Many Monessen Citizens

Get down to the cause of everything.

Bad backs are frequently caused by weak kidneys.

Help the kidney to get rid of kidney backache.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only.

No time wasted trying to cure other troubles.

Monessen people endorse their merit.

Mrs. McCleary, 256 Sixth street, Monessen, says: "One of the family was bothered by sharp pains in the small of the back which often extended into the shoulders. After stooping it was hard to regain an erect position and often the pains almost took one's breath away. Headaches were almost constant and black spots floated before the eyes. A number of medicines failed to bring help and Doan's Kidney Pills were finally procured at the Hirsch Drug Co. The first box brought relief and three boxes made a cure."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doans Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. McCleary recommends. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You can try it yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M Summers, Box R, Notre Dame, Ind.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CHAPTER LVII.

The Reckoning.

"Now," said Count Frederick to Kitty when at length they had reached the upper portion of the palace, "we must advance to what remains yet to be done. The ministers must be summoned. The writs must issue for the attendance of the parliament. 'Tis long since one has been convened. Michael the king—he alone has been our government—and what a government!"

They were now passing toward the central portion of the palace, having ascended from the vaults below. Absorbed—intent—Count Frederick, at least, was inattentive to aught else save the presence of the woman at his side. But now she plucked his sleeve.

"Listen!" said she, and laid a finger on her lips.

At her signal, Count Frederick softened his footsteps and walked with her stealthily. The sound of voices engaged in whispered conversation came now to his ears. Suddenly he stepped forward, convinced, flung open a door off the main hall, and passed within unannounced. It was no time for formalities in Gretzhoffen palace now.

"So," said he, "you are here again! What, Sachio, you honor us yet by another visit? That is most kind of you! You, Grahame, you, my former bodyguard—here with this arch traitor, this liar, this treacherous snake!"

Under the Steady Hand of the Pilot the Aircraft Headed for Shore.

They stood, surprised, as yet without plan for their defense.

"Ho, there!—the guard—the guard," cried Count Frederick, stepping back to the door.

There was no exit at any window possible—there was but one door.

But to his call there came no footsteps of the guard. Instead, one man came—Roleau, who for the past few moments had been in search of the two men. He hastened past Kitty as she stood, thrust himself into the room, and with Count Frederick, faced the trapped men who stood before them.

Count Sachio, with a snarl of rage, sprang forward at his foe, and Roleau, with a quick motion, flung himself between. He felt the iron hands of his master on his shoulder.

"Leave him to me, Roleau! Take care of the other man."

The two noblemen faced one another calmly now. Not so with Roleau. On the instant, he flung himself upon the man accosted as Grahame. The struggle was unequal and under Roleau's powerful grasp the intruder soon was helpless.

"Well," said Count Frederick; "Sachio, how shall it be? Shall I choke you with my hands?"

The man whom he accosted was one not easily dismayed.

Suddenly his eye, rapidly glancing about the room, caught sight of a trophy of arms hung across the room. From it he caught down two swords. Bowing, he handed both, hilt forward, to Count Frederick. "At your service, monsieur," he said.

"On guard!" said Count Frederick.

Lightly, gracefully, gently, the tips of the two blades met, shivered a trifle, each feeling of the other, scarce more than a hair's breadth from its course.

Suddenly the jaw of Count Frederick shut the tighter. None could have said that he had seen what ensued. In some fashion, the blade of the nobleman of Gretzhoffen went out, vibrating, catching in its grip the blade opposed to it. There was a wrench, a twist. The weapon of Count Sachio was torn from his hands, he stood unarmed. He stood one-half moment before he felt, hissing hot through all his body, the point of his antagonist.

Count Frederick turned, not waiting to see his foe sink fully down, for he knew the work was done. He advanced half a pace to the man Grahame, cowering in the corner before Roleau. Him he smote across the cheek with the bloody blade, and said: "You coward and traitor, you shall go to the law."

"As for you, Roleau, captain of the guard," said he, "you have proved your faithfulness once more."

"What? I am captain, master?"

"Roleau, captain of the guard," said he, "I thank you."

CHAPTER LVIII.

Long Live the King!

In the great throne room of Gretzhoffen palace, there were gathered, late that day, those men highest in power of all the realm.

Count Frederick entered the room at last—but not alone. At his side there walked one whose presence was greeted with a frown by these grave and revered seigniors—it was a woman.

"Gentlemen," said Count Frederick, smiling as he saw this reception, "you will pardon me that I bring with me one whom I honor, whose wisdom I value. Thanks to fate which brought this young woman to our shores, we have found the lost treasures of the king!"

A sighing silence fell upon them all. Alone of all these—till now almost unnoticed, in the corner where he sat sunken down—the weakling king made some show of resentment at what he heard. A snarl, a growl of rage almost inarticulate, came from him.

"You, Michael, our king!" said Count Frederick, suddenly turning to him, growing wrath in his tones now. "I call you 'your majesty' as yet, but I dare say to you, your majesty—your drunken majesty—your weak and helpless coward majesty—that there shall never be wasted upon you or your purpose one penny of this treasure which we have found.

"That, gentlemen," said he, turning to the councilors and ministers who stood about, "is the treasure of the people. It was saved for them."

They still stood silent, grave, looking from one to the other and at him.

He extended before him the folded parchment which he had taken from the treasure chest.

"This," said he, "we found in the treasure chest. I have brought it unopened. I have fancied it may be some document of importance to our state. It was not for me to open. Will you, your excellency?"

He offered it to the prime minister of the government. The latter gravely took it in his hands—gazed at the great seal which fastened it—broke the seal—undid the confining band and gazed upon the contents of the parchment thus unfolded. His hands shook—the great sheet almost fell from them as he read.

"Read, then," demanded Count Frederick. "What is it that you have found?" It was natural for men to obey his voice when he spoke thus.

"It is strange and wonderful—it is incredible!" said the prime minister.

Count Frederick caught in turn the parchment in his own hands. In turn his own face showed amaze, astonishment—his own strong hands shook.

"Your majesty," said he, smiling at length as he turned toward the cowering figure in the corner of the room, "I shall call you that for the last time!"

"What do you mean?" demanded Michael with one last show of resentment, summoning such resolution as he could to his own bloated face. "What do you mean—treason, in the presence of the king?"

"Not treason, for you are not our king."

A sudden heavy silence fell upon all in that room. It was long before the solemn tones of Count Frederick went on.

"These," said he, "are the imperial scripts of Michael the First of Gretzhoffen. They were buried with his treasures. In some part, they govern the disposition of those treasures. You hear in this the voice of our king, and know the long regency following the Gretzhoffen war. You know why that regency was established. Rumor was that King Michael died like a king, in his own bed. The truth was otherwise. He was murdered here in the vault by the men of his own foster brother.

"If that be true—and as God is my witness, I believe it to be true—then we well may guess which boy was brought up under the regent to take the place of a king. That was not myself—others, relatives of mine, reared me, as you know, until I am what you know. And yonder man—this drunken waster—not even the son of lawful wedlock, never the son of a queen—that man, he was the one accepted as your king! Treason, you say—why, there was treason to every human being who lived on Gretzhoffen soil, when that pretender took the throne!

"Gentlemen," said he, "you have my proof. I submit my case to you and the parliament. I submit myself to the law. As for that law, if it is given me to reign, always shall I support it, and always shall it be my ambition to give to the people that liberty, that justice which I myself have learned to love."

Still the silence, the tense electric silence which thus far had held them all. They stood thus for one moment. Then as with one common impulse—as though the same thought had caught them at the same instant, each of these men—idlers and wasters, or men of purpose and of principle, raised his hand. There rose in unison the old cry:

"LONG LIVE THE KING."

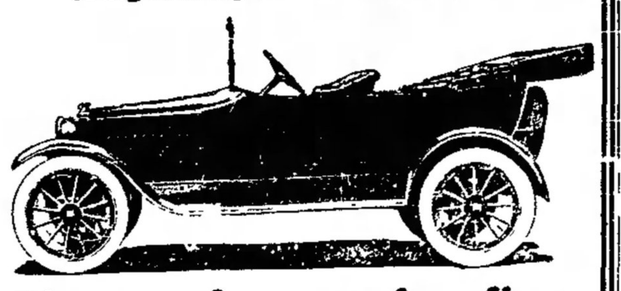
SAXON SIX

A big touring car for five People



Plenty of room for five

Every one is comfortable in a Saxon "Six." The driver and his seatmate have plenty of leg room. And three large people can find easy sitting in the wide tonneau.

People who enter the Saxon "Six" for the first time are astonished at its roominess and comfort. Some may have thought of a Saxon as a small car. But Saxon "Six" is not a small car It is really a big car. It has the longest wheelbase and greatest inside width of any car in its price class.

It has long cantiliver springs of vandimum steel. They cradle you over bumps and smooth out the unevenness of rough country roads. Other big winning features of the Saxon "Six" are Saxon High speed motor, giving wonderul power and flexibility; yacht line body, the most beautiful type of automobile body ever designed; light weight, the modern principle of motor car building, ample strength but no excess tonnage to waste gasoline and tires; electric starting and lighting; demountable rims; 112 in. wheel base; 32x3½ tires; Timken axles.

And above all this car is a "Six." Once you have fully experienced the steady pull, the luxurious smoothness, the freedom from gear shifting that only a "Six" can give—no lesser car will satisfy you. Come and try it; we are glad to demonstrate.

'THE BIRTH OF A NATION' GOES TO MILES THEATER

Photoplay Will Be Continued

Never in the history of Pittsburgh has there been a theatrical engagement akin to that of the historical spectacle, "The Birth of a Nation," now at the Nixon theater. Since August this wonderful pictorial representation of our nation's birth has been playing to crowded houses twice every day, and yet, judging from the never ceasing demand for seats, but a small percentage of the people who want to see this remarkable play have had an opportunity to do so. The popularity of the piece in Pittsburgh, already some 150,000 people have attended the performances, and the impossibility of continuing the engagement at the Nixon after this Saturday, owing to the theater's contracts with other attractions, decided the management of the big spectacle to make an effort to continue the run at some other Pittsburgh theater. After much deliberation and for the following reasons the Miles theater was chosen, because it is a very beautiful playhouse peculiarly adapted to the exacting requirements of this famous play; because its very large seating capacity means few daily disappointments to patrons; and because its very accessible location on Seventh street and Penn avenue is on all carlines. The move to the Miles will be made on Monday, Oct. 18, and the first performance will be the matinee of that day. The scale of prices will be exactly the same as at the Nixon theater viz: Evenings and Saturday matinee, 25 cents to $2: all other matinees, 25 cents to $1.

"The Birth of a Nation" carries its own symphony orchestra of thirty which will be augmented by the Miles theater $30,000 organ. The success of the Griffith masterwork in Pittsburgh is typical of its success in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and other large cities. In New York, at the Liberty theater, this pictorial drama has been shown twice a day, seven days a week, since the first of last March—seven months ago—and still the daily attendance seldom falls below 4,000.

"The Birth of a Nation" is history Appealingly, grippingly, dramatically presented in a way history was never before offered. Its marvelous scenes took a month to produce and cost in the neighborhood of $500,000. When one takes into consideration that $50,000 is considered an extreme limit of expenditure for any theatrical production it does not take any particular stretch of the imagination to realize why the public enthuses over the Griffith masterwork.

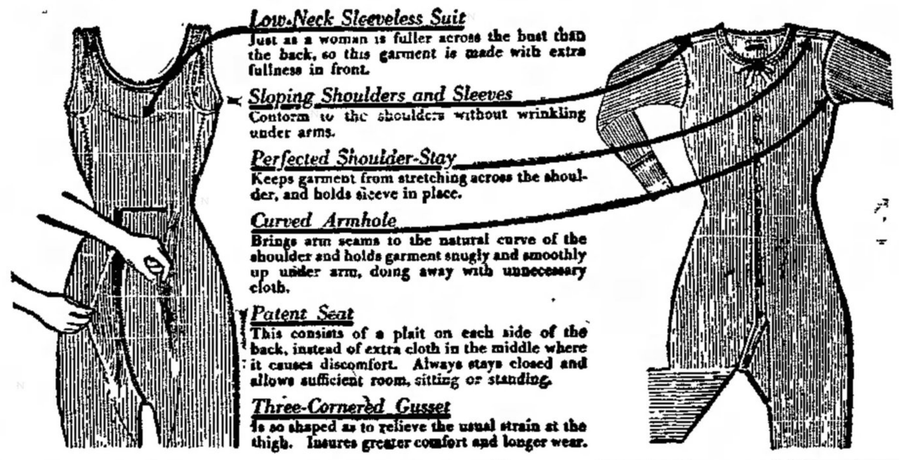
Gowns Fit Better Over

ATHENA Underwear

1. Not the fit of ordinary underwear but "glove fit."
2. Woven and tailored to really fit the figure—patented features of merit.
3. Athena garments are durable and have a dainty elegance—they are tailored to fit—therefore wear right.

Here are the features that give Athena its comfort, its daintiness and its tailored fit



Low-Neck Sleeveless Suit
Just as a woman is fuller across the bust than the back, so this garment is made with extra fullness in front.

Sloping Shoulders and Sleeves
Conform to the shoulders without wrinkling under arms.

Perfected Shoulder-Stay
Keeps garment from stretching across the shoulder, and holds sleeve in place.

Curved Armhole
Brings arm seams to the natural curve of the shoulder and holds garment snugly and smoothly up under arm, doing away with unnecessary cloth.

Patent Seat
This consists of a plait on each side of the back, instead of extra cloth in the middle where it causes discomfort. Always stays closed and allows sufficient room, sitting or standing.

Three-Cornered Gusset
Is so shaped as to relieve the usual strain at the thigh. Insures greater comfort and longer wear.

What Wonderful Sweaters

Some with a smart cap to match, all with attractions in wear and color combinations that you have never seen before in sweaters. The sweater is no longer a "knock about" garment, it has become an important and distinctly handsome part of a fashionable woman's outfit.

At $1.00 to $5.00 the values are uncomparable.

Beautiful Knit Silk Sweaters at the Lowest Prices.

HOME OF THE PIPE ORGAN

Following is the program of the Olympic theatre for week beginning Monday, Oct. 11 and ending Saturday Oct. 16—:

REGULAR PROGRAM

SATURDAY—"The Ghost Wagon," in three reels. Every movie fan loves a western story on the screen if it's good. And he knows when he sees a good thing. Some of the bunko stuff put out as a western drama would make a horse laugh, but the Universal actors must know how to ride, and so there is a real thrill in "The Ghost Wagon" for every foot of film. Animated Weekly No. 186. The Strand theatre of New York, the best one in the world, runs the Animated Weekly for two years. So it must be good and you know it, too.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

SATURDAY—The famous picture "The Diamond from the Sky." Our patrons know more about it than we do. It will not let you sleep while in our theatre.

Interesting Meetings

Old Rehobeth Presbyterian church and the surrounding populace is being stirred by the lively revival meetings which are being conducted by Evangelist W. W. Hall and his party of assistants. The meetings began Sunday night and will continue for two weeks. A large audience was present at the opening meeting and the evangelist portrayed what a church ought to be in a sermon of wonderful power and interest. The large choir under Mr. Busak's direction did splendid work. Last evening the Fayette City evangelistic choir added enthusiasm to the meeting by attending in a body.

Evangelist Hall will preach quite a number of new sermons never heard before in this section during the series of meetings and this is a rare opportunity for the rural population to enjoy these live meetings.
